HAILSTONES IN MISSISSIPPI.

"Big as Eggs" Variety Outclassed by Big as Baseball Sort.

A shower of chunks of ice from the size of an egg to that of baseballs falling slowly at first and then increasing until it was coming down in sheets, so to speak, fell with a roar and din upon this peaceful and compactly built town and smashed window lights by the score at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Folks got a little excited and began singing and praying and laughing and crying at the same time, and promising to lead better lives in the future.

The cloud, a green one, came from the west. There was no rain, and just a slight breeze blowing, which tilted the downpour just enough to smash glass exposed on the west side of buildings. All the stores face west, but the costly plate glass fronts were protected by good stout awnings. Even these awnings of heavy tin and corrugated iron were smashed and dented and cut through in places. The roof of Wilbourn's store and that of the big lumber sheds were turned into sieves. The slate roof on the depot is almost ruined on the west side. Heavy plate glass upper story windows of the stores and residence windows by the score were smashed; poles were knocked through some shingle roofs and they were all more or less damaged.

Live stock caught out simply went wild, and the writer saw a bunch of horses go through a barb wire fence without hardly checking their gait.

One cunk of ice that fell in front of the drug store measured six inches from tip to tip, four and one-half inches in diameter and weighed six ounces. Most of the hail was cone shaped, resembling pineapples somewhat and much of it was as large as small pineapples, running in weight from three to six ounces.

The community was visited at 7 o'clock by a severe wind and rain storm, which did but little damage. No rain fell before, during and until three hours after the hailstorm.—Greenshaw correspondence Memphis Commercial Appeal.

CURIOUS MAN OF KALAMAZOO,

Gets Inquisitive in Broadway and Has an Adventure.

The newsboys had stopped selling their papers to gaze through the iron fence in front of Trinity Church yard on Broadway. A citizen of Kalamazoo, passing by, stopped to look too.

Before he had stood there a moment half a dozen heads were bobbing around his, looking in the same direction. Attempting to back away, he found himself wedged against the iron bars by an ever increasing crowd.

The sidewalk was blocked and many passing around the outskirts of the mass inquired what was the matter. No one knew, but there were many guesses. A man had dropped dead of heart disease; there was a funeral in the churchyard; the sidewalk had caved in.

The street cars had become blocked and a call was sent for the police. The whole street was a jam, and the windows of the office buildings were black with heads, when a dozen blue-coats butted their way to the seat of the trouble.

The man from Ka'amazoo, who had despaired of getting out alive, was lifted from the two forms beneath him, which after some vigorous treatment showed signs of life.

"Hey, youse," said the policeman in charge, "what t'ell's the matter?"

Slowly getting back his breath one of the newsboys looked around vacantly for a moment, then his face lighted up.

"Gee," he said, "dey was two chip-pies fightin' on a gravestone."—New York Sun.

That the county is increasing its wealth at rapid strides is shown by the assessments of this year, which aggregate nearly $300,000,000, a gain of more than $60,000,000 in five years.

When a man gets through digging up his back yard in the spring time, he doesn't wonder what becomes of all the old tin cans, any more.

A Pensioned Horse.

A faithful government servant has been recognized and rewarded by Ormsby McHarg, Assistant Secretary of Commerce and Labor. This servant is an old horse named Caleb, which for twenty-four years has devoted his energies to pulling a wagon belonging to the United States Fish Commission at Green Bay, Me. Last week, after a serious attack of boils, he showed his inability to serve the Government any further by lying in his stall and refusing to be harnessed. The officers at Green Bay, knowing that the animal's days of usefulness were over, reported the fact to the Department of Commerce and Labor and asked for a new horse, also expressing the intention of killing Caleb. This report fell under the eyes of Secretary McHarg, and he immediately issued an order that the faithful animal be placed in the pasture until he died a natural death. This is one of the few cases on record in which a horse had been placed on the Government's pension rolls.—Chicago Tribune.

LESSEN THESE, TOO.

We've the telegraph wireless,
The church that is spireless,
The gas that is fireless,
Yet these we desire less
Than roads which are mireless.
Than hoboos who're tireless
Campaigns that are liarless
And statesmen who're hireless.

PRESSED HARD

Coffee's Weight on Old Age.

When prominent men realize the injurious effects of coffee and the change in health that Postum can bring, they are glad to lend their testimony for the benefit of others.

A superintendent of public schools in one of the southern states says:

"My mother, since her early childhood, was an inveterate coffee drinker, had been troubled with her heart for a number of years and complained of that 'weak all over' feeling and sick stomach.

"Some time ago I was making an official visit to a distant part of the country and took dinner with one of the merchants of the place. I noticed a somewhat peculiar flavour of the coffee, and asked him concerning it. He replied that it was Postum.

"I was so pleased with it, that after the meal was over, I bought a package to carry home with me, and had wife prepare some for the next meal. The whole family were so well pleased with it, that we discontinued coffee and used Postum entirely.

"I had really been at times very anxious concerning my mother's condition, but we noticed that after using Postum for a short time, she felt so much better than she did prior to its use, and had little trouble with her heart and no sick stomach; that the headaches were not so frequent, and her general condition much improved. This continued until she was as well and hearty as the rest of us.

"I know Postum has benefited myself and the other members of the family, but not in so marked a degree as in the case of my mother, as she was a victim of long standing." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."
